WHERE TO STAY

At the tip of Mexico's Baja peninsula is the resort and celebrity haven of Esperanza (above). Peeking through the palm trees dotted about the private resort's 57 acres are secluded casitas, each decked out in a regional style, with locally woven rugs, hammocks, rattan chairs and handcrafted furniture. The casitas have private terraces with infinity-edged tubs, from which one can take in the views over the Sea of Cortez. Call 00 52 624 145 6400 or visit Esperanzaresort.com.

...and relax

Each of the seven treatment rooms has a private garden, outdoor shower and soaking pool. The spa uses ingredients in its treatments found on the Baja peninsula. Try the coconut and lime body treatment, where fresh grated coconut is used to exfoliate the body, followed by a lime oil massage. Canopied beds piled high with pillows provide an excellent place to laze.
